The screenshot shows a communication interface for a project named "Basecamp". At the top, there's a small thumbnail of a Basecamp interface and the word "Basecamp". Below it, the title "3 notes" is displayed in large, bold, black font. To the right of the title is a "Reply" button. Underneath the title, there are three tabs: "Recent" (which is selected), "Unread", and "Read". Each note is represented by a card with a small profile picture, the note type (e.g., "Reviewer comment" or "Message"), the author's name, and the timestamp. The first note is from "Andrew Williamson" on "Thu Sep 19 09:08:16 2013" with the message "Thanks. That works, I'll finish up the review shortly.". The second note is from "Wil Clouser (clouserw)" on "Thu Sep 19 09:04:40 2013" with the message "Oh, sorry about that! Username: mozilla Password: AppsRock!". The third note is from "Andrew Williamson" on "Tue Sep 17 09:00:47 2013" with the message "Interesting app, but I need a username and password to finish testing all the functionality". Each note has a small checkmark icon to its right.

Decreased review friction by creating an easy path for developers and reviewers to communicate.
